BISHOP BANS PRIEST WHO SAW STALIN

Fr. Orlemanski Fights Back

Back Home After Visit to Stalin

Surrounded by young parishioners, the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski returns to Springfield from a visit with Marshal Stalin in Moscow . . . to find that his superior, Bishop Thomas H. O'Leary, has taken all priestly privileges away from him. Speaking to the press at Springfield's Union Station, the priest declared he was no Communist, made the trip on behalf of the Polish people, and wished for the establishment of an American system in postwar Poland.

Yanks Capture 4 Towns, French Win Italy Hilltops

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 13 (AP)—American and French troops assaulting the Gustav Line in Italy have captured four towns and numerous hilltop strongholds, it was announced today, while Eighth Army forces below Cassino are forming a bridgehead across the Rapido river.

Headquarters officially announced gains of a mile to a mile-and-a-half, while front dispatches reported advances of two to three miles at some points in the offensive on a 25-mile front from Cassino to the sea.

(A German broadcast announced evacuation of Castelforte and nearby territory, and a Reuter's dispatch from the Eighth Army front declared the village of Sant' Antgelo, on the west band of the Rapido 2½ miles below Cassino, had been captured.)

FOUR TOWNS TAKEN

Fierce German counter-blows were beaten off in other sectors.

Americans of the Fifth Army attacking in the Castelforte area—13 miles south of Cassino—seized Ventosa, a mile to the west, hill positions nearby, and the town of Cercobi, a mile farther south, winning that village in a tank-supported thrust. A third village, San Sebastiano, near Castelforte, also was captured.

The larger town of Cosmo San Domingo, a mile southwest of Castelforte, also fell to an American assault, a later front dispatch said.

Farther north, Frenchmen of the Fifth Army captured 2550-foot Monte Faito, a hinge of the Germans' first line defenses, midway between Castelforte and San Ambrogio.

Ventosa in the Garigliano sector was taken in severe fighting, and the Americans drove the Germans from strong points on Damiano Hill and Hill 316, west and southwest of Castelforte.

YANKS SWEEP AHEAD

The capture of Ventosa disclosed that the Americans had punched ahead at least one and a half miles from the jumping off of the offensive in that area.

Other American troops advanced one mile and with the support of tanks routed the Nazis from the town of Cercobi, a mile south of Damiano Hill.

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—Up to 750 American heavy bombers struck deep into Germany again today, pounding an aircraft assembly plant at Tutow and railway yards at Osnabruck as the ceaseless Allied round-the-clock pre-invasion air assault moved into the fifth straight week.

Tutow lies 105 miles north of Berlin and 25 miles inland from the Baltic sea. Osnabruck is 40 miles east of the Dutch border, on the main rail line from Berlin to Amsterdam.

Nearly 1000 fighters accompanied the heavy bombers, which also blasted other German targets.

Following up RAF blows last night, which saw up to 750 heavy bombers on the key Belgian rail centers of Louvain and Hasselt, long formations of lighter bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters started the 29th straight day of aerial blows with attacks on rail centers and defense targets in northern France and Belgium. Other formations continued the sweeps throughout the day.

Berlin said the heavy bomber thrusts were accompanied by fierce aerial battles when German fighterss met them as they swung into Germany over the Baltic coast, but losses were not released in the first U. S. headquarters' announcement.

The RAF night attack was a quick follow-up to a smash assault by 2000 American bombers and fighters on five big Nazi synthetic oil plants.

The huge American sky-fleet yesterday smashed its way through great swarms of German fighters in one of the war's fiercest aerial battles to strike at four oil refineries in the Leipzig area and a fifth in Czechoslovakia.

The blows cost the attackers 42 bombers and 10 fighters, while 150 of Hitler's carefully hoarded fighters were shot down.

BULLETIN

LONDON, May 13 (INS)—A broadcast to the Blue Network in New York today reported Allied casualties along the Eighth Army front were lighter than expected during the first 24 hours of the new drive in Italy.

Expert View Of Italy Push

By CAPT. JOHN H. CRAIGE

Written Especially for International News Service

Key to the Italian battle in its opening stage is the Nazi mountain stronghold of Cassino, against which the powerful British Eighth Army is advancing. Farther west along the Allied line, the strong American Fifth Army is going into action on the Garigliano sector, with the obvious aim of threatening Cassino on its rear and flank.

Probable intention of the Allied attack in Italy is to pin down Nazi forces in that war theater before the main amphibious assault on fortified Europe is launched from the British Isles and the Red army's spring offensive gets under way.

Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, Hitler's supreme defense-chief, who recently visited Italy, is believed to have recommended immediate liquidation of the front there. This would make sound military sense, and the Germans early this week moved back at Palena. Probably the present Allied drive was designed to catch them on the move.

Refugees Flee Rome

LONDON, May 13 (INS)—The German DNB agency reported today "endless columns of refugees" are streaming out of Rome.

Invasion Thrill Sweeps Moscow

MOSCOW, May 13 (AP)—Tension over the opening of the western front was noticeable in Moscow today.

Editorials and articles in Moscow's newspapers create a zero hour atmosphere sharpening the rapidly mounting interest of the people in date of the Allied invasion and the resumption of the Red army offensive.

The most popular pastime of the moment is laying bets on when the United States and Britain will land troops on Hitler's occupied Europe.

The Allied offensive in Italy, however, was reported in 53 lines of type on the back page of one Moscow newspaper today.

Izvestia, in an editorial on the Allied declaration to Romania, Finland, Bulgaria and Hungary to get out of the war, said the actio offered those countries an appor tunity to cast off the German yoke and "together with the dem ocratic countries struggle shoulder to shoulder against Hilerite Ger many."

Reds, Nazis in Fierce Battle For Dnester Bridgehead

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—Russian and German troops were locked in a fierce struggle on the west bank of the Dnestr river northeast of Tiraspol today, with the Germans hurling strong forces against the Soviets.

A Russian communique said that in two days of fighting 4000 German soldiers and 100 tanks had been knocked out by Soviet troops defending the bridgehead, which provides the Russians with a potential jumping off place for another big push westward.

Announcing that the last remnants of Axis forces trapped on the Crimean peninsula west of allen Sevastopol had been elim-nated, the Soviet Information Bureau in a broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor said that in the five-week Crimean campaign 111,687 German and Romanian troops were killed or captured.

In addition, the broadcast said, Russian planes and ships of the Black sea fleet sank a total of 191 Axis ships.

The information bureau reported that 20,000 Germans and Romanians were killed in the final three-day assault which toppled Sevastopol last Tuesday.

A Soviet communique said Red army troops fighting on the lower Dnestr bridgehead were being attacked by numerically superior enemy forces and had been forced to call for support from Russian war planes. The communique declared "the enemy did not achieve any success, although suffering heavy losses in men."

Pacific War Today

Speedy China K.O., Jap Aim

By J. B. KRUEGER

Associated Press War Editor

Japan's large-scale offensive in China, turning ominously in the direction of Chungking, dwarfed all other operations in the Asiatic-Pacific theater today.

Loyang, some 500 airline miles northeast of the wartime capital, was besieged from three sides. The Japanese cut the Launghai railroad at Mienchin, 48 miles east of Loyang, blocking a main retreat route for several hundred thousands of Chinese defending the city. Yinghao, six miles farther west, had already fallen.

Another enemy force was within five miles of the North Honan rail junction, which is a gateway toward the mountain passes through which Chungking can be reached. A third force striking from the east was about 15 miles away.

From the German radio came a "Shanghai report" that Lushan, 60 miles south of Loyang, had been captured by the enemy. If true, this advance would signify expansion of the Japanese hold on the Hankow-Peiping railway.

These offensives put the Japanese well below the Yellow river for the first time since 1938 and in position to gamble on knocking China out of the war before the Allies can gain coastal China as a base for attacking Japan's home islands.

In India Allied air forces gave strong support to British troops striving to wipe out Japanese lodged near Kohima, border city which guards a supply line to Lieut.-Gen. Stilwell's troops in Burma.

Stilwell's Chinese forces have opened what appears to be a major drive on the North Burma Japanese bases of Kamaing, Mogaung and Myitkyina.

The new offensive was launched more than a mile south of Malakawng, on the south bank of the Kwelon river.

Priest Banned, Defies Bishop

SPRINGFIELD, May 13—As a result of his "mission to Moscow," Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, Springfield pastor whose sensational trip to the Kremlin startled the world, today was suspended from all priestly duties and immediately issued a challenge to the penalty imposed by Most Rev. Thomas M. O'Leary, bishop of Springfield diocese.

"I will continue to say mass," the 54-year-old pastor told reporters. "I intend to celebrate mass in my church tomorrow and plan to take part in the St. Stanislaus Day exercises arranged in my honor by my parishioners."

Under the order issued by Bishop O'Leary, Fr. Orelmanski was suspended from celebrating mass, administering sacraments or making public appearances.

UNDER POPE'S ENVOY

Fr. Orlemanski, notified of his suspension in a telephone conversation with Rev. George J. Shea, D.D., diocesan chancellor, immediately dispatched a letter to Bishop O'Leary reading:

"Your Excellency: You are hereby notified that I am no longer under your jurisdiction but under the jurisdiction of the Apostolic Delegate in Washington, D. C."

When reporters asked Fr. Orlemanski if his letter implied he'd had authority from Archbishop Amleto Cicognani, apostolic delegate, to make the trip to see Stalin, the priest said "no."

He explained his letter meant the matter of his suspension was now in the hands of Archbishop Cicognani.

Fr Shea, infored of thme pastor's challenge, said failure to obey the terms of the suspension might result in Fr. Orlemanski being removed as a pastor. He said further disciplinary action would depend on Fr. Orlemanski's adherence t othe suspension order.

OF INDEFINITE PERIOD

The suspension will remain in effect "until the bishop decides otherwise," said Fr. Shea.

It was pointed out that Fr. Orlemanski is also suspended from celebrating mass privately as well as publicly. Priests are required to celebrate mass daily.

Concerning the possibility that Fr. Orlemanski might have had permission from Archbishop Cigognani, Fr. Shea said Bishop O'Leary would have been notified in such event.

In Washington a spokesman said the apostolic delegate had no statement to make at this time

Berlin Hints Attack a Ruse

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—Berlin declared today "several heights have changed hands several times" on the Italian front, and both sides are throwing in fresh forces in fighting "continually mounting in violence."

The Allies are using tanks in strong attacks "on a very large scale" along a front from east of the Gulf of Gaeta to northwest of Cassino, the German communique said, blows being supported by violent artillery fire and combat planes.

Earlier, a Berlin radio commentator suggested the Allied offensive "will prove only a diversionary opera'ion" for another attack elsewhere in the peninsula.

He declared "in all probability" the Allies would attempt a new amphibious landing somewhere on the west coast of Italy, possibly between the Fifth Army's main front and the Anzio beachhead or immediately north. He said the Allies were holding in reserve five fully-equipped divisions.

Another German broadcast, suggesting fears such a blow might come from Corsica, said German bombers had made "two very concentrated attacks" against Allied Corsican airfields last night.

Berlin said one powerful tank attack in Italy had driven a wedge more than a mile deep in the German line at Sant' Angelo, three miles south of Cassino, and that "counter-attacks are now in progress against this breach."

Inside Stuff About a Sailor

Flashlight in one hand, gun in the other, Patrolman Everett Watson stealthily entered the Twentieth Century Cafe, Andrew st., Lynn, today.

A shadowy form he had been observing through the window walked toward him. Watson threw on his light. It was a sailor.

"Breaking in!" the patrolman accused him.

"Breaking in hell!" said the sailor, "I'm trying to break out."

It was true enough. Kenneth A. Smith, Alley st., Lynn, had been a patron last night. He had fallen asleep and escaped the notice of employes when the place was closed. He was released to report for duty.

Crash Note

NEW BRITAIN, Ct., May 13 (AP)—A piece of chalk served Frank Maase for a calling card when he backed his car into W. J. Steward's automobile. Nobody witnessed the accident, so, being in a hurry, Maase chalked his registration on the sidewalk. Steward drove home before he discovered the smashed fender. His anger cooled when, upon returning to the parking place, he found Maase's number, and the latter paid for the damage.

Woman's Body Found in Cellar

The body of a woman, dead for several weeks, was discovered this morning in the cellar of a small variety store in Roxbury st., Roxbury, by the proprietor, who had descended to investigate neighborhood reports the place had been broken into last night.

Morris Baker, Harvard st., Dorchester, the store owner, made the find in a seldom used part of the cellar.

Morris, who was accompanied by a woman of the neighborhood, found a bag of clothing near the body. A hospital tag on the clothing bore the name of "Della Clark."

The woman apparently was between 65 and 70 years of age. She was gray-haired, weighed about 130 pounds and wore a green coat trimmed with fur, tan stockings, blue skirt and black shoes.

Medical Examiner Leary ordered the body removed to the Southern Mortuary for autopsy.

When the storekeeper arrived at his place of business this morning, residents of the neighborhood told him they had heard someone moving around in the place during the night.

Baker could find nothing missing, nor any evidence of tampering.

Gas Blast Rocks Hingham Yards

Hingham and its environs were aroused at midnight by a thunderous explosion at Bethlehem Hingham Shipyards, but no one was injured and damage was estimated at only $100.

Officials of the yard explained that seepage from an acetylene line settled in a pit.

Sparks from a passing train ignited the acetylene, causing a tremendous blast which rocked homes for a radius of a mile.

Employers-Workers Union Talks OK'd

PHILADELPHIA, May 13 (AP)—The Tihrd U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals held in effect today that an employer may discuss labor unions with his employes without violating the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

The court rejected a National Labor Relations Board petition to declare the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company and its president, Edward G. Budd, guilty of contempt of court because of letters regarding labor unions which the company sent out to 15,000 employes.

Bricker Sees Farmer Vote Lost to New Deal

CHICAGO, May 13 (INS)—Resentment against the New Deal, Governor John W. Bricker declared today, already has cost the Democrats the support of "agricultural America."

IN WAR ZONE—Ever on the alert for approaching enemy aircraft is Marine Lieut. Richard Harper, Jr., of Milton . . . shown at his post in the Pacific area where he's serving with an anti-aircraft artillery unit.

The Ohio chief executive and candidate for the Republican presidential nomination made the observation during a brief stopover in Chicago. In a speech at Omaha last night, he flayed the administration's farm program. Bricker speaks tonight in Milwaukee.

The governor said he welcomed the support of the American Democratic National Committee, an anti-fourth term group, which announced itself in favor of Bricker's candidacy last night.

"All over the country," Bricker said, "old line Democrats are flocking to the Republican party and I welcome support from all groups who believe as I do."

SATISFIED WITH DRIVE

He said he was "quite satisfied" with his campaign to date but declined to predict the number of delegates he expects to have when the Republican national convention opens in Chicago next month.

"Delegates are something else you don't count until you're sure of them," Bricker said.

The Ohio Governor, in his visits to Lincoln and Omaha yesterday, insisted the Republican presidential race is "still a wide open affair," and indicated he would carry on his campaign for votes to the eve of the convention. His campaign so far has included 30 states. Tonight's speech at Milwaukee will end the present three-state tour.

Calling for defeat of the New Deal, Bricker at Omaha said if elected he would work to return present federal activity "as much as possible" to the hands of the States, where it "rightfully belongs."

RAPS DICTATORSHIP

Bricker declared the Secretary of Agriculture has become a figurehead with agricultural policy in the hands of "young radicals whose real purpose is to undermine our system of government."

Bricker spent a part of his Nebraska visit with delegates of union representatives and told them the right of collective bargaining must be preserved by government. But, he added, "it should be handled through fair-minded agencies and free courts, neither dominated by the President nor appointed advisers who desire to dictate."

"If we allow dictation to industry or labor, then it is inescapable that government must next take over other segments of society," he said.

He said American workers must be protected in postwar international co-operation plans from being dragged down to the "peonage" of some other nations.

LIEUT.-COL. J. H. CARTER AND COL. CLAIR PETERSON
Two Mustang Pilots Smash Coast-to-Coast Record

War Plane Sets Hop U. S. Mark

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—A new transcontinental flight speed record—six hours, 31 minutes and 30 seconds, set by Col. Clair Peterson in a sleek P-51 Mustang fighter plane carrying full battle equipment—was written into aviation annals today.

Peterson made the spectacular flight from Los Angeles to New York yesterday, arriving at La-Guardia Field eight minutes before another Mustang, which had taken off from Los Angeles a minute ahead of him, landed.

The second plane was piloted by Lieut.-Col. Jack H. Carter of Pasadena, Cal., whose time was six hours, 39 minutes and 30 seconds.

Both ships, North American Aviation Corp. stock models, eclipsed the record made last month by Howard Hughes in the huge, four-engined Lockheed Constellation.

Hughes flew the transport from Burbank, Cal., to Washington in six hours and 58 minutes.

Peterson, 34, personal pilot for Gen. Henry H. Arnold, U. S. Army Air Forces commander, stopped at Kansas City, Kan., to refuel. He averaged 378 miles an hour for the 2470-mile flight.

Carter, 30, flew non-stop and averaged 370 miles an hour.

Packard Plant Tied by Strike

DETROIT, May 13 (AP)—One big war factory—Packard, makers of Rolls-Royce aircraft engines and PT-boat engines—stood idle today as the strike of 3300 Detroit war plant foremen began to have more serious consequences.

The Packard plant was closed last night virtually at the very hour the War Labor Board declined to go on record with assurance to strikers they would be protected from any management reprisals if they returned to work.

2 Hub Men Among 17 Lost in Ship Blast

While a Navy court of inquiry opened investigation of the mysterious explosion on an ammunition-laden Naval lighter that cost 17 lives 14 miles northeast of Boston harbor, the Navy made public a complete list of the victims today.

Donald B. Neal

E. H. Hall, Jr.

Only two were Boston men, Coxswain Joseph F. Burke, 22, of Grady Court rd., East Boston, formerly of Lincoln st., North Beverly, and Jin Yee Ming, 29, seaman 2d class, Hudson st., So. End.

Thirteen survivors, including five Massachusetts men, were scheduled to give the court their versions of the series of blasts and fire which blew their craft to bits while they were dumping condemned ammunition into the ocean. The lighter went to the bottom in less than 35 minutes.

Meanwhile, all hope apparently was abandoned for 17 men, officially listed as missing, when the First Naval District announced today that their kin are being notified.

William J. Bradley, 30, machinist's mate, 1st class, son of Mrs. Catherine B. Bradley of Gould st., Newport, R. I., died of burns at Chelsea Naval Hospital after he was brought ashore in a Navy weather vessel which picked up all survivors.

The five Massachusetts survivors are Lewis B. Tremblay, 41, chief boatswain's mate, USNR, of Middle st., Marblehead; Lieut. (jg) Herman W. Doering, USNR, of Meadowbrook ave., Springfield; Lee T. Ridenour, chief gunner's mate, USNR, of Cottage st., Hingham; George R. Hormak, gunner, USN, of West Third st., South Boston, and Donald B. Neal, 38, 10 Melrose st., Boston, motor machinist's mate 1st class.

The explosions, which were heard by North Shore residents, occurred 14 miles off Nahant and Swampscott, on a line between Cape Ann light and Minot's light, and came after almost three-fourths of the cargo had been dumped overboard, Navy spokesmen said. Cause of the blinding blast aboard the 132-foot, self-propelled craft, remained undetermined.

2 Brothers Hurt In Malden Crash

Two Malden brothers were critically injured today when their beachwagon crashed into a trolley pole at Main and Appleton sts., Everett.

Manuel M. DeCosta, 28, Cross st., Malden, was operating the beachwagon for the Boston Line and Service Co., Lewis wharf. His brother, Arthur A., 16, was passenger.

The car was so badly damaged pedestrians and passing motorists worked nearly an hour to extricate the boys. At Whidden Memorial Hospital, Everett, their names are on the danger list.

3 Hurt in Lynn Auto Crash

Louis A. Musial, Pulaski st., Peabody, was taken to Lynn Hospital with a fractured skull and two other persons were injured as the result of an auto crash today at Western ave. and Washington st., Lynn.

Musial, a Portsmouth Navy Yard worker, was in a car driven by Miss Helen Bell, Bates st., Danvers. Operator of the other automobile was Wilson Tibbs, Willow rd., Nahant.

Miss Bell was treated for cuts and bruises at the scene. Tibbs was taken to the hospital and later released.

30-and-Over Men Expected To Grab 11,000 War Jobs

Greater Boston's 10 U. S. Employment Service offices were prepared today for a sudden increase in activity following the War Manpower Commission announcement that there are 11,000 war jobs available in this area for men, 30 and over, who wish to transfer into essential industry.

Under provisions of the new draft deferment policy, men 30 and over who work in war-important industries will be placed in 2-A or 2-B and deferred indefinitely.

In Washington, a WMC notice to the U. S. Employment Service said men in this age group who hold jobs in essential lines of work are not expected to be inducted probably "for the remainder of the year." This was the first official statement that the over-30 group could hope for deferment through 1944.

Leon J. Kowal, WMC director for Boston, said openings exist here for all classifications of workers necessary for the assembling and production of electric machinery and ship building. Also, there is urgent need for workers in the manufacture of rubber, iron and steel products.

Application for these essential jobs should be made at the following U. S. Employment Service offices: 9 Beacon st., Boston; 10 Holyoke st., Cambridge; 455 Broadway, Chelsea; 110 Pleasant st., Malden; 10 High st., Medford; 290 Center st., Newton; 13 Temple st., Quincy; 9 Union sq., Somerville; 45 Moody st., Waltham; and 25 Montvale ave., Woburn.

Admits Slaying Plant Chief's Wife

LOS ANGELES, May 13 (AP)—John F. Serensky, 38, a war plant shipping clerk, admitted last night, Police Capt. Thad Brown said, he killed Mrs. Marian Berger, 40, wife of the personnel director in the factory where Serensky worked.

Police reported they found blood-stained clothing and tufts of hair in Serensky's automobile parked nearby and that Mrs. Berger's diamond ring and the keys to her car were found on Serensky's person.

Coast Guardsmen and civilian volunteers were instructed to search the coastline on the theory Mrs. Berger's body might have been thrown in the ocean.

Police to Probe Boys' El Battle

Police will go to Dorchester High School for Boys Monday in an effort to identify the 20 youths who attacked three boys and frightened passengers on an inbound rapid transit train from Ashmont yesterday.

The disturbance, fourth of its kind among boys within a week, moved two clergymen to prepare formal protests to Commr. Sullivan over an apparently new wave of anti-Semitism.

Meanwhile, the Boston Elevated launched an inquiry directed by Dares D. Hall, superintendent of transportation.

The attack took place between the Columbia and Broadway stations, according to witnesses who filed reports with the Good Neighbor Ass'n of Dorchester.

It followed an unsuccessful attempt by the young hoodlums to trap the three boys near the high school, some students said. The gang trailed the trio to the Columbia station and followed them aboard the train.

Police Supt. Fallon said today: "The matter is being investigated thoroughly. Late yesterday afternoon two youths friendly with the three boys went to the Fields Corner police station and said they could identify the attackers. Special officers will accompany the informants to the school Monday. We hope to pick out the assailants."

Victims of the beating, all of whom suffered head bruises, were Harold Rose, 17, Morton st., Mattapan; Edward Levin, 17, Evans st., and Allen Stakovitz, 17, Harwood st., both of Dorchester.

Clergymen preparing to take up the matter with Commr. Sullivan are the Rev. Emory S. Bucke, pastor of the Hyde Park Methodist Church, and Rabbi Samuel L. Korff of Congregation Kahillath aJcob.

Mothers of America Paid Warm Tribute

In contrast with the harsh reality of war, a grateful nation will pause tomorrow to pay warm and loving tribute to mothers everywhere, on Mother's Day.

Postal authorities report that the quantity of Mother's Day mail handled in Boston has shattered all records. Telephone and telegraph companies are prepared for an unequalled number of messages because boys and girls in uniform have already started sending special greetings to their mothers.

Mothers will be honored guests tomorrow at all USO-Greater Boston Soldiers' and Sailors' Committee Clubs, as well as 22 affiliated service organizations. Various USO clubs will conduct contests in order that winners may make free telephone calls to their mothers in various parts of the country.

Special public and religious services are also in store. Sermons on the glory of motherhood will be preached in churches of almost every denomination.

The public exercises will be highlighted by a ceremony at the Parkman bandstand tomorrow afternoon when Mrs. Marie O'Connell Murray of Brockton will receive a citation as Massachusetts State Mother of 1944. Ten other mothers will also receive honors.

At the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, more than 250 members of the parish Holy Name Society, with 100 officers and men of the armed forces as guests, will hold their annual Mother's Day communion breakfast.

Stork Beats Devens Draftee

It's bad enough to be inducted into the Army with your wife in a hospital but Armand Levesque, Lowell st., Peabody, had further cause for the jitters today.

Levesque was one of a group of inductees who entrained from Peabody at 7:44 this morning. At 7:50 the Peabody Red Cross was frantically telephoning the Travelers' Aid desk at the North Station. At 8:30 Gateman Roy L. McKie of the Boston and Maine halted the draftees as they marched towards the train for Ft. Devens.

"Which one of you is Armand Levesque?" demanded McKie. Levesque stepped forward and McKie whispered into the draftee's ear. Levesque's alarmed look changed to a broad grin. "Aw it's all right to tell them," he told McKie.

And, so his fellow inductees congratulated Levesque on the birth of a daughter born to Mrs. Levesque at the J. B. Thomas Hospital, Peabody, just two minutes after the father had started on his way to the Army.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 13 (AP)—A Liberty ship named for Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scouts, and christened by the world's first Girl Scout, sails among the nation's war vessels today.

Store Owner Beaten, Robbed

Two youths robbed and slugged Julius Kaufman, proprietor of a third floor Washington st. clothing store, in a noontime holdup today that netted them three topcoats, two dollars in cash and a watch.

Kaufman, his scalp cut by a revolver butt in the hands of one attacker, was taken to City Hospital.

He was alone in the store, near the corner of Beach st., when the pair entered.

Churchill Sees Super Weapon

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—A new and secret Allied invasion weapon capable of destroying certain enemy emplacements within less than five minutes was demonstrated yesterday to Prime Minister Churchill during his inspection of British troops somewhere in England.

Prime Ministers W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada and Jan Christiaan Smuts of the Union of South Africa accompanied Churchill.

All looked with the keenest interest as this weapon did its job with spectacular power and then shouting infantry went in to simulate a mopping-up charge.

Facing the lowest enrollment of civilian students in nearly 100 years, Harvard University will close Dunster House, one of its three remaining civilian dormitories, at the end of the spring term.

Horrors! N. H. Pair in Hub Honeymoon Without Dime

A moneyless bride and bridegroom from Wilton, N. H., waited hopefully at the Copley Square Hotel today for funds to extricate them from their predicament—loss of the bride's purse in a taxicab.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cheever, married at Greenville, N. H., yesterday and totally out of pocket money on the first night of their honeymoon.

They arrived in Park sq. late yesterday in a bus, Mrs. Cheever, the former Margaret Crosby of Greenvillee, carrying their money, nearly $50.

"To the Ritz," Cheever ordered a taxi driver.

The Ritz was full.

"To the Copley Square," ordered Cheever.

There they found a room—and the bride uttered a gasp of horror. She had left her purse in the cab.

Cheever, with hardly a dime in his new suit, rushed to the street. The cab was gone. He told hotel executives about his plight. They urged him to relax. He told Lieut. Edmund Gallahue at police headquarters today but the hackney bureau had no record of a taxi driver reporting discovery of the purse.

The police, at Cheever's request, contacted his bank in Wilton. Funds for the hotel bill and sundries are on the way. Cheever is to examine photographs of taxi drivers at the hackney bureau. He thinks he can identify the driver.

The couple have only until tomorrow night for their honeymoon. Cheever goes into the Navy Monday.

Plane Dive Kills Son Of Hub Radio Chief

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 13 (INS)—After one of the most spectacular rescue attempts in naval history, Lieut. Hugh O'Neil, 25, son of William O'Neil, president of the General Tire & Rubber Co., of Akron, O., and the Yankee radio network of Boston, died after his plane crashed into the Pacific ocean off San Diego, the Navy revealed today.

Lieut. O'Neil died aboard a destsroyer after a Cataline flying boat and a Navy blimp battled heavy seas and high winds to reach him, late yesterday.

Aviation Radioman 1/c John A. Sosnowski, 25, a Pearl Harbor hero, suffered slight injuries when he dropped from the blimp to aid the rescue efforts. Sosnowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sosnowski, Freeland, Pa., was commended for devotion to duty aboard the U. S. S. Cummings during the Japanese sneak attack.

Double Honor For Sicily Vet

A Dorchester man who distinguished himself during the assault on Sicily today wears the Legion of Merit and the Silver Star medals and holds the distinction of being the first Coast Guard officer in this war to be decorated by both the Army and Navy.

He is Lieut-Comdr. Edward C. Thompson, Jr., 32, of Mellon st., Dorchester, who was decorated at impressive exercises at the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Ct. Citations from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the late Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy, were read by Rear Adm. James Pine, academy superintendent, who presented the awards.

The Navy's award of the Silver Star came in recognition of Lieut.-Comdr. Thompson's "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity as captain of the PC in action against enemy forces during the assault on the island of Sicily," off Licata, July 9, 1943.

He received the Legion of Merit by command of Gen. Eisenhower for his "courage, resolution and splendid seamanship which contributed materially to the subsequent success of the Seventh Army" in operations off the north coast of Sicily in support of Gen. George S. Patton's forces a month after the previous event.

Retail Stores Aid Bond Sale

Under sponsorship of the Boston Retail Trade Board, Boston's retail stores will play a major part in the sale of war bonds during next month's Fifth War Loan, F. W. Denio, chairman of the Massachusetts War Finance Committee, announced today.

Describing the Fifth War Loan, which starts June 12, as "the biggest selling job yet undertaken," Mr. Denio said:

"It will be a selling job of such magnitude that we naturally pin faith on people who are doing a selling job every business day—the retail stores of Boston."

E. D. Warner, president of Hovey's, will be chairman of the stores' committee, F. F. Vorenberg, retail trade board president, announced.

Mills Get 165 Tons Paper Raised Here

More than 165 tons of high-grade office paper, the equivalent to eight freight car loads, went to processing mills today following a special salvage drive at the State House and 30 state buildings in Massachusetts.

B. G. Waters, secretary of the Massachusetts salvage committee, said the total was the largest single contribution made by any state in the union.

Members of the War Production Board and Advertising Club of Boston, sponsoring the drive, visited Gov. Saltonstall today and thanked him for declaring a State House "paper holiday" to insure success for the collection effort.

Hundreds of pounds of obsolete correspondence and old records were contributed by the governor himself.

In the adjutant general's office, many documents and orders for the state militia and National Guard, dating back before Spanish-American War days, were donated. At armories throughout the state, thousands of target sheets which men of the 26th Division used while learning to shoot, increased the salvage total.

Vets' Rights Bill Gains Supporters

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 13—With increasing numbers of representatives ready to fight for passage of the "G-I bill of rights" in its present form, unhampered by crippling amendments or changes, debate on the veterans' rehabilitation measure will continue in the House Monday.

In order to speed action on the bill, House Majority Leader John W. McCormack decreed that most of the coming week be devoted to a study of the measure and proposed changes or additions, so that it may come up for a final vote Thursday as scheduled.

Debate will be limited to five minutes for each speaker. Proponents are lining up leading orators of the House who will oppose any move to alter the long-awaited bill.

If it is passed on Thursday as hoped now, the proposed legislation will then go to a joint House-Senate conference committee on Friday. In some respects, the House version of the bill differs from that passed unanimously by the Senate in March.

Backing the fight for the G-I bill without amendments are Reps Harold Knutson of Minnesota, Bertram W. Kearney of New York, Harry P. Jeffery of Ohio, Harry Sauthoff of Wisconsin and Earl Michener of Michigan.

One of the most stirring pleas for prompt passage of the measure was made by Rep. Leonard Allen, Louisiana Democrat and foe of bureaucratic dictatorship, who appealed to the House:

"When our boys get out of the war, let's give them the freedom they have been fighting for. I don't want them to come home and find that they are all wrapped up in boards and bureaus when they try to get their rights."

Oldest Auto Driver Buried Tomorrow

TOWNSEND, May 13—Funeral services will be held at the Congregational Church tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. for Beniah Harvey Savage, 97, believed to be the state's oldest licensed automobile operator.

Publisher Describes Italy Hot-Spot Visit

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, JUNIOR
Publisher, New York Journal-American

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY ON THE GARIGLIANO FRONT, May 13—The stone marker by the side of the road read 160 km. Translated into miles and English, it meant that if we kept going on up the Appian way for 100 miles we would be in Rome.

Today our destination is the town of Minturno, perched atop a hill overlooking the Gulf of Gaeta, the southwestern-most town on the front line.

We were five in an open jeep; Graham Hovey and Larry Newman of International News Service, Sid Feder of the Associated Press, our driver, Pfc. Harold L. Bennett, of Valdosta, Ga., and yours truly, bowling along under a warm sun.

Sounds almost like a picnic party doesn't it? We kept on until we came upon a couple of MPs, who signalled us to stop.

WEAR YOUR HATS

"You are entering a combat zone," they said. "Put your windshield down, put the canvas over on it and from now on you wear your tin hats."

The reason for covering the windshield is to prevent the sun's rays from reflecting up into the surrounding hills, making you a better target.

From here on, the area is under a white smoke screen.

A slight breeze is blowing in from the sea.

The smoke machines are belching cottony thick stuff which spreads out thinly, enveloping the country-side with a haze two or three thousand feet deep.

As we approach the Garigliano river, the smoke is so thick that at times you cannot see more than a hundred yards.

The original and much disputed Minturno bridge has long since been demolished, so we detour along the bank to a rather rickety looking affair and slowly start across it.

Believe me, it was an eerie feeling. You know darn well the Germans can drop a shell right on you anytime they want to—you just hope with all your might they don't want to just then.

Once on the other side and out of the dense smoke we could see Minturno up on our right. We hold the town and the first ridge around it but the Germans hold higher ground on the three sides beyond us.

WALK OR DRIVE

We turned off sharply now onto a dirt road which ran straight ahead to the foot of the hill on which Minturno stood.

An MP stopped us and told us we could either walk up the steep slope or drive around the side. We swung to our right for a couple of minutes and then turned left on the worst road I have ever seen. On both sides of us now—in the bushes, under trees, behind rocks and sandbags, were soldiers and equipment, all dug in.

Finally we stop just under the crest of the hilltop. Minturno rises above us—shot to hell with its big medieval castle setting up on top like a crown. In single file we walked up the hill to a building, or rather part of one, marked CP, which stands for command post, and went inside.

We took a quick peek out over the surrounding hills before sitting down to a swell lunch with the CO, a grey-haired blue-eyed veteran of the last war.

'TAKE THE BOYS UP'

As we rose to go, the colonel turned to a member of his staff and said, "take the boys up to see some of our observation points."

"Yes, Sir," said Lieut.-Col. Raymond E. Kendall, of Manchester, N. H., and with a curt "follow me," turned and led the way.

We finally reached our goal, puffing like so many steam engines, our hearts pounding away at a great clip. From here through horizontal slits cut in the walls, and in turn heavily reinforced with sandbags, we peered out.

Sticking a bamboo stick through a slit, Colonel Kendall pointed out to us—one at a time—where the German lines started—down by the sea and then running up into the hills around us in a big semicircle.

Coming up we had thought there were Germans in the hills—going back we knew it, which didn't make us feel any easier, but it was the only way out and out we went.

Gandhi Grows Weaker, Mentality Hazy

By RELMAN MORIN

AT GANDHI'S REST HOME IN JUHU, India, May 12 (Delayed) (AP)—Intimates of Mohandas K. Gandhi said today his physical condition has deteriorated sharply and his mental powers apparently have been affected, causing him frequently to fade into a state resembling a coma.

However, when I saw him at the palm-shaded seaside villa he looked like anything but a sick man.

Members of his entourage expressed alarm about his failure to rally from the illness that last week caused the government to order his release from custody at Poona. They said he was noticeably worse, and he declared this morning, "I never felt so far gone."

(A medical bulletin today in Bombay said Gandhi "had a restful day and a good night with the result his exhaustion is less. A blood examination was made yesterday. The anaemia showed no improvement.")

They said he was unable to grasp the meaning of news reports read aloud to him by his long-time disciple Madeline Slade, daughter of an English admiral. He ceased trying to read the papers himself several days ago.

Gandhi is staying at the seaside. Indians refer to it as a shaek, but it is a latticework beach house, cool, comfortably appointed

Despite his loss of strength, Gandhi took his customary walk and appeared at public prayer at sundown.

The evening devotion scene was almost Biblical. A couch was covered with white cloth and cushions were placed nearby. Two hours before Gandhi appeared a dozen Indian women wearing loose-fitting white saris knelt on rugs. Their attitude was one of adoration. They bent their heads toward the empty couch as if it weer an altar.

Outside the barbed wire surrounding the grove hundreds had massed and hundreds more were streaming along the beach from narrow paths through the palms.

Gandhi appeared at 7:30 p. m. leaning on the shoulders of two women. His pace was slow but firm. He was clad in his familiar robe draped over his left shoulder and wearing the white breechclout.

(SWELL INFO.)

...or how friends are made in the R.A.F.

Have a "Coke" is a friendly greeting among R. A. F. flyers back at early dawn from a night mission. It's like a salute among comrades in arms that seals the bonds of friendship in Plymouth, England, as in Plymouth, Mass. It's an offer as welcome on an English airfield as it is in your own living room. Keep Waistline Trim

Beauty

By IDA JEAN KAIN

OUTSIDE of Mae West, who likes lush lines, there probably isn't a glamour girl in Hollywood whose waistline measures more than 26 inches. These girls have to keep their waistlines snug or they appear plump in pictures.

And there's a tip for you . . . you can look streamlined at normal weight by keeping this mid-measurement trim. For example, take two girls each 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 120 pounds apiece. One girl has a neat and tidy 25-inch waistline and the other a blowsy 27½-inch waist. Our streamlined lassie won't look as though she weighed more than 110 pounds, all in the right places, but you'd guess the other's weight to be around 130!

HOLLYWOOD GALS look to their waistline in a preserving routine of figure beauty . . . no rubber-tire bulges . . . no waistline flobbiness . . . to rob them of a streamlined "top to toe" silhouette. For a trim waist tone up your muscles with a few exercises that are certain to bring changes to your measurements. M-G-M's Frances Gifford is a waist-line beauty among other charms, don't you think?

WELL-TONED MUSCLES

If you don't have a waistline, you don't have a figure. When you start to go flabby, you go waist first. Flabby fat is bulky and takes up more space and the waist measures larger even though the scales are not out of bounds.

To have a trim waist you have to have well toned muscles and that takes exercise. Every movie studio has a gymnasium. Whereas the stars used to keep thin with a diet, now they keep trim with exercise and it's healthier. But of course, they don't overeat.

It doesn't take much exercise to keep your waistline slim but it does take time keeping at it. A couple of exercises in which you stretch, twist and bend are all you need. Why not try it? What have you got to lose?

TRY THESE EXERCISES

Position: Stand on knees, knees apart, arms out at sides, shoulder level, abdominal muscles pulled up and hips well under.

Movement: Holding that up-pull through the middle, bend sharply at the waist to touch fingertips to floor on one side; back to position, bend to other side. Repeat six counts for a starter, then work up to 18 counts. You cheat on this exercise if you let the hips bow out to the opposite side as you bend, and crumple at the waist.

Position: Sitting on floor, stretched slim through the middle, head between arms, legs straight and widely separated.

Movement: Twist to the side, then bending touch outstretched hands to foot; back to position, twist at waist, and touch outstretched hands to other foot. Six times is plenty for a starter.

A ROMANCE which began in Buffalo where both young people grew up is revealed today in the announcement by Mrs. W. Clarke Atwater of Commonwealth ave. and Norwell of the engagement of her daughter, Sonja Hedstrom, to Carlton Perry Cooke, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cooke of Buffalo.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Eric L. Hedstrom of Buffalo, where she lived until recent years when her mother moved to Boston. She is a niece of Dale Warren of Boston and North Pembroke and her brother, Eric Jr., is in the Army Air Forces. She was educated at Garrison Forest School in Maryland, made her debut in Boston in '42-'43 and belongs to the Junior League. She is at present studying at the Boston School of Occupational Therapy.

Her fiance attended Southern Arizona School and is in business in Buffalo.

PLANS HOLIDAY

Heading toward the Hub on a well-earned rest from her war job in Washington is post deb Nancy Mayer, daughter of George von L. Meyer, genial superintendent of the Children's Hospital.

At present she is visiting her mother, Mrs. Eugene Pool and Dr. Pool in New York and is expected to arrive here next week for a month's holiday at Rock Maple, her Dad's ancestral estate in Hamilton.

For the past two years Nancy has been a welcome addition to the Capital's younger social group. Working in government circles is second nature to this pretty blonde lass for her family tree has produced many aristocratic statesmen. Her mother is a member of Boston's famous Saltonstall clan and her paternal grandfather was George von L. Meyer, distinguished American diplomat who held outstanding posts during the administrations of Pres. "Teddy" Roosevelt and Pres. Taft.

She is a niece of those handsome sisters, Mrs. Philip Coffin and Donna Julia Brambilla, leaders in Washington society who are soon coming to their summer place adjoining Rock Maple. She has been living in the Capital with Mrs. Coffin but on her return will have a new address for Mrs. Coffin has sold her home preparatory to coming to the North Shore.

RETURNS SOUTH

Mrs. Mildred Seydell, internationally known journalist and Atlanta, Ga., socialite, in town to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Lieut. and Mrs. Paul Seydell and her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hill of Chestnut st., has extended us a flattering invitation to sit in her celebrity chair if and when we visit her home town. The chair is in the study of her home and it is said to have been occupied by more celebrities than any other chair in the country. She is leaving today to visit friends in Chevy Chase before returning to Atlanta.

Chili Meat Balls Among Favorite Spring Dishes

THESE GLORIOUS SPRING DAYS beckon the homemaker outdoors, and now she's starting to think of ideas that will simplify the indoor tasks to make more hours in the open possible. Dishes that can be prepared in advance or reheated at mealtime are a boon at a time like this.

"Hot" chili meat balls are a good example. They can be made and shaped in the morning and held in the refrigerator until time to cook. And any chili balls left over can be reheated in gravy or mashed with piccalilli for a sandwich spread.

Spices are coming back on the market, too, so use them to flavor all kinds of dishes. Recipes for chili meat balls and other well seasoned spring dishes are below:

Casserole of Chili Meat Balls

CHILI MEAT BALLS

1 lb. ground beef
1 lb. ground lean pork
1 beaten egg
½ cup milk
2-3 cup uncooked rice
2 tsp. chili powder
3 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. lard or meat drippings
2½ cups cooked tomatoes
2½ cups water
2 tbsp. chopped onion

Mix ground beef and ground pork. Add egg, milk, rice, 1 teaspoon of the chili powder and 2 teaspoons of the salt. Form in 1½-inch balls; brown in hot fat. Combine tomatoes, water, chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon chili powder. Bring to a boil. Drop in meat balls. Cover; cook slowly 1½ hours. Serve on bed of hot macaroni. Makes 18 balls.

BRAISED OX JOINTS

1 oxtail Flour
2 tbsp. lard or meat drippings
1 cup water
1 cup cooked tomatoes
1 tsp. salt ⅛ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. celery salt
4 whole cloves
1 bay leaf 3 cups diced carrots
2 small onions, chopped
½ clove garlic
¼ cup diced turnips
¼ cup lemon juice

Cut oxtail in short lengths for ox joints, roll in flour and brown in 1 tablespoon fat slowly about 15 minutes. Add water, tomatoes and seasonings; simmer about 2 hours or until tender. Brown carrots, onions, garlic and turnips in 1 tablespoon drippings 3 to 4 minutes; add to meat and cook 1-2 hour longer. Add lemon juice the last 10 minutes of cooking. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

1 lb. pork kidneys
2 onions, medium-sized
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. salt
1-8 tsp. pepper
3 cups water
2 tbsp. flour
2 tbsp. lard or bacon drippings

PORK KIDNEY STEW

Remove heavy veins from kidneys. Cube kidneys and soak 1 hour in cold salted water. Drain; add fresh cold water; bring to boiling point. Drain; add 3 cups cold water. Bring to boiling point, skim, add sliced onions and seasonings. Simmer about 1 hour until kidneys are tender. Brown flour in fat and gradually add kidneys and stock, stirring constantly. Cook slowly about 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, FRIDAY—Sunday will be the 30th observance of Mother's Day. This is a nice gesture, and this year it is a particularly significant one. War has placed new responsibilities upon mothers, greater sacrifices are demanded of them, and whether they are young or old, their lives are much more difficult. I wish that we could celebrate a parent's day, for it seems to me that in this country what we really care about is the home, which is created by the parents. Nevertheless, I hope this Mother's Day will bring to many mothers a sense of the important position which they hold in the life of the country,

I HAVE JUST RECEIVED a pamphlet which claims to have found a satisfactory solution to racial questions. The gentleman who is the author of it would like to take one of our minority groups and transport all its members to another land. He would have us build roads there and give them equipment and trained personnel to start them off.

I am afraid that this could never be a permanent solution, because if we decided to move one minority group and settle it in some other part of the world, why shouldn't we decide to do the same thing with another group with which we found it difficult to get along at some time or other?

We have among us a number of groups which some of our people would undoubtedly like to remove to other parts of the world on occasion. If we begin this, it would seem quite logical to me to go on, and I wonder just where we would stop dividing up our nation.

Priest

concerning Fr. Orlemanski.

The chancellory issued a brief statement to the press within three hours after Fr. Orlemanski arrived here, saying that "canonical penalties" had been imposed on the Polish-American priest.

TEXT OF ANNOUNCEMENT

The announcement said:

"The Most Rev. Bishop said today that canonical penalties required by the case have been imposed. Further information may be obtained from Fr. Orlemanski."

The censure was said to have been imposed on the 54-year-old pastor for making the trip to Moscow without the knowledge or consent of Bishop O'Leary.

Rev. Xavier Baronowski, curate at Holy Rosary parish, who was among the hundreds who greeted the returning pastor, was named acting administrator by Bishop O'Leary.

No specific reason for the punishment was made public by Fr. Shea. He said only that it was for violation of the canons (laws) of the Roman Catholic Church.

WITHOUT PERMISSION

The penalized priest, under canon law, can accept the ruling by going into retirement or he can appeal to the Holy See for hearing. Such an appeal would be sent to Rome through Archbishop Cicognani.

In Rome, the controversial issue would be presented to the Congregation of the Council, headed by Francesco Cardinal Marmaggi.

Shortly after Fr. Orlemanski's presence in Moscow was made public the chancellory of Springfield diocese authorized a statement that the priest left his parish and diocese without knowledge of Bishop O'Leary.

The severe ecclesiastical punishment was imposed shortly after Father Orlemanski's arrival at Union Station where he was greeted by hundreds of parishioners and parochial school children.

HIS AIM FOR POLAND

In an interview earlier, Fr. Orlemanski said his aim was establishment of an American system in Poland. He said he expected to make the results of his conferences with Stalin public soon.

Whether any public announcements of his conversations with the Soviet leader will be made was questioned in view of the ban against public appearances under Bishop O'Leary's order.

During his earlier press conference, Fr. Orlemanski said:

"I don't want a Communist system in Poland, I want an American system in Poland."

He disclosed he organized the trip himself because the "Kosciuszko League interested me and I wanted to see what was going on in Russia."

"I wrote to the State Department and asked permission to go to Russia," he said. "The first answer I received was not satisfactory and I wrote a second time.

ARRANGED WITH RUSSIA

"This time I told them I had to go in order to help the war effort. If I hadn't got permission to visit Russia, I would have stopped the Kosciuszko League movement entirely.

"The State Department asked me 'What about Russia?' and I made all the arrangements with Russia myself."

The tall clergyman, obviously needing a shave and tired after his long trip from Moscow, was entirely at ease during the short conference. At his side was Fr. Baronowski.

Fr. Orlemanski waved his arm in an emphatic gesture as he declared:

"I am not a Communist. I want my American friends to know that. I told the same thing to the Polish army. I belong to no party or no clique. I'm working for the Polish people.

"I think I have been successful. I went as a private citizen and I am not a salesman nor have I been selling anybody or anything.

STALIN DEMOCRATIC

"My government is fully entitled to a complete report from me but I didn't want to embarrass the State Department by going to Washington immediately."

In describing Stalin to the reporters, Fr. Orlemanski said that "he's just as democratic as you are."

He said the Kosciuszko League was an organization of patriotic Americans of Polish birth or ancestry. He reminded newsmen that Kosciuszko was an American hero during the Revolution.

Asked if the Roman Catholic apostolic delegate had been told in advance of his plans, Fr. Orlemanski smilingly replied:

"I jumped the fence."

Fr. Orlemanski ended the interview abruptly when he was asked about the time of his expected visit to Bishop O'Leary.

"Don't ask any more questions. That's my business," he said, with a slight show of irritation.

WELCOMED HOME

He arrived home in time to observe the feast day of his patron saint, St. Stanislaus of Cracow, with special ceremonies tomorrow. Coincidently, tomorrow will be Fr. Orlemanski's 55th birthday anniversary.

Fr. Orlemanski's usual Sunday schedule called for him to celebrate the 10:30 mass and deliver the sermon.

hills from which the Germans had commanded the lowlands approach route and then crushed two violent enemy counterattacks.

South of Cassino Allied troops defied torrents of fire yesterday from well-prepared German positions to cross the Rapido river in the Liri valley with assault boats before dawn.

An official Allied report declared these troops "are forming the first bridgehead in close contact with the foremost defenses of the Gustav line in this sector. The buildup in this initial bridgehead is proceeding against stiff opposition."

The Germans also were employing great numbers of tanks, mortars and self-propelled guns in that area.

To the north of the American sector, the Fifth Army's French troops in some of the day's bloodiest close-quarter combat captured the 2550-foot crest of Monte Faito and then moved on to the neighboring heights. The summit was a mile and a half ahead of the starting point of the offensive. After taking the mountain the French repulsed a very heavy enemy counterattack.

ENEMY HOLDS CASSINO

Grim struggles progressed both north and south of the battered ruins of Cassino, but the Germans inside the town itself were left unmolested.

The Eighth Army's achievement of gaining a bridgehead over the Rapido was matched by other Eighth Army units north of Cassino which drove in enemy outposts in the rugged mountain area and advanced in the face of the most determined German defense.

Toughened veterans of the German first parachute division launched bloody counterattacks as grim fighting raged northwest of Cassino.

The capture of Monte Faito by the French was considered one of the major accomplishments of the first day of the big offensive.

Naval support was given the operation by a British cruiser with an escort of American destroyers which shelled the Appian Way in the Terracina area and bombarded the enemy's big guns in the Gaeta area.

Allied bombers and fighters hammered airdromes, roads and communications throughout Italy during the first day of the offensive.

Solon Asks Postwar Watchdog for Japs

By RAY RICHARDS

WASHINGTON, May 13—Certainty that Japan will remain one of the main problems of the United States for generations to come indicates a strong need for a standing committee of Congress to keep constant vigil over all things Japanese, it was claimed today by Rep. Henry M. Jackson, Washington Democrat.

Recent developments, including charges before the Dies Committee that certain American financial and legal interests are endeavoring to protect the fortunes of the Japanese Imperial household and the giant Mitsui and Mitsubishi trading companies, show that Congress should delay no longer in establishing such a committee, Jackson said.

"Full knowledge of Japanese matters in the future, including knowledge of what the Japanese in this country are doing, may save us from another war in the Pacific."

Rep. Jackson said he had arranged a conference with Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, Illinois Democrat, chairman of the House rules committee, at which he will ask for committee hearings shortly on Jackson's resolution for the creation of a select standing committee to keep under surveillance "all Japanese matters affecting the security of the United States."

Jackson pointed out that many large American financial and commercial institutions had profited greatly in past years through relations with Japanese firms, and, on the theory that wars are merely unfortunate interruptions of the world's business, look forward now to a resumption of such relations when the conflict is ended. The Congressman went on:

"Insofar as Japan is concerned, the trouble is that Japanese business and the Japanese government are interlocked inseparably. Everything important is a government monopoly in Japan. The Mitsui and Mitsubishi companies are as much a part of the government as is the bank of Japan."

$6,700,000 More for Wartime Maternity

WASHINGTON, May 13 (INS)—President Roosevelt signed legislation today appropriating an additional $6,700,000 for emergency maternity and infant care for wives and babies of servicemen.

The money supplements $23,000,000 provided in previous appropriations for the 1944 fiscal year. It is estimated veterans' child care appropriation for the next fiscal year will total $12,800,000.

Congress Still Has Duty To Perform

THE NEW DEAL abandoned more than the Chicago plants of the Montgomery Ward and Co. when it withdrew its agents from the premises and permitted the legal management to take over again.

It also abandoned Attorney General Biddle's utterly astounding and utterly dangerous interpretation of the wartime powers of the Presidency.

In his argument before United States District Judge Holly, the Attorney General had asserted that the President, as Commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, has "constitutional" power to seize any business or property, that he may exercise this power without authority from Congress, that Congress has no power to prevent such action by statute, and that the courts lack jurisdiction to interfere with such unlimited power.

A few days later, the Attorney General, having heard from the country, reversed himself, sparing the courts the necessity of doing so.

He filed a brief in the Montgomery Ward case in which he said:

"The United States is not contending that the President possesses a broad, unrestricted and unreasonable power in time of war to confiscate the property of all the citizens."

Mr. Biddle conceded that the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution prevents confiscation of property, except for "public use" and with the payment of "due compensation"; and he further conceded that the courts may curb "arbitrary" or "unreasonable" or "capricious" exercise of power by the President.

HAVING THUS REJECTED his own original contention, the Attorney General advanced instead the more reasonable proposition that the only question of power involved was the "power of requisition" as authorized by Congress.

Obviously, therefore, Congress has the power to direct the actions of the President, including the issuance of executive orders and "directives"—a Presidential usage on which the Attorney General had leaned heavily in his previous assertion of "unlimited" Presidential powers.

The seizure of Montgomery Ward and Co. was AN ACT of dictatorship.

The reasoning by which the Attorney General first attempted to justify the seizure was an assertion of THE POWERS of dictatorship.

That is the position which the Attorney General has now abandoned.

But this does not mean that the whole issue is ended.

Congress has delegated two committees to examine into the question of Presidential power.

Both committees have properly announced that they will proceed with their task.

Clearly, it is the duty of Congress, as the legislative and representative branch of the government, to make sure that Executive "power" will not again be abused as it was in the seizure of Montgomery Ward and Co.

Bring Joy to Mothers

IT IS fitting that the nation should pause in the midst of the greatest war the world has known to honor its mothers.

None of us can honor Mother too well or sing her praises too often. All we have and all we are we owe in a very real sense to her.

It is unfortunate that tomorrow will be a sad and lonely day for thousands of mothers whose sons are far away fighting the battles of this conflict or preparing to participate in the imminent invasion of Europe.

Let us remember these war-afflicted mothers and try to bring them a little of the much happiness their heroic sons would surely bring them if they could but come home for a single hour.

WASHINGTON, May 13—As if the future of mankind didn't look grim enough, Mrs. Lavelle Dickinson, new president of the American Federation of Women's Clubs, revealed today that it is her firm intention to try to make it grimmer.

Mrs. Dickinson, who comes from Keene, N. H.—not too often I hope—made her forbidding disclosure at her first press conference since assuming high office.

A young lady reporter, who looks as if she aspired to be a prominent clubwoman herself some day, asked Mrs. Dickinson about her aims for the future.

"We know that men are trying to keep us down," replied Mrs. Dickinson. "We must band together to fight them!"

MRS. DICKINSON is white-haired and is what might be called an austere type. If she decides to band together to fight me, I will not be around for the battle, slinking craven that I am.

AT LAST. I think I know what is wrong with Sen. Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee—and he has my deepest understanding and sympathy.

The trouble with Sen. McKellar is that he had no carefree childhood.

He revealed this himself during the poll tax filibuster. In answer to a question about his labor record, Sen. McKellar said, dramatically:

"I was born a laboring man!"

WHEN WPB Boss Donald Nelson went before a Senate subcommittee investigating the liquor situation the other day he took with him Walter G. Whitman, assistant director of WPB's chemical bureau

Nearly every time a Senator asked a technical question, Nelson turned to Whitman for the answer. But, before giving it, Whitman invariably consulted a slide rule.

He kept whipping out this slide rule. Finally it seemed to get on the nerves of Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada.

"Do you decide everything by a slide rule?" the Senator demanded.

Whitman replied that it was very helpful.

"Well," said McCarran, "Please put it away for a while!"

I CALLED UP Whitman's office about the slide rule and got this explanation:

"The gadget supplies the best and quickest way of figuring out chemical proportions whether Senator McCarran likes it or not!"

MISS FAITH BALDWIN, the authoress, has just come forward with a spirited defense of my little woman. Personally, I cannot think off hand of anybody who has less need of a champion, but I am not going to argue with Miss Baldwin either.

The book-writing lady deposes as follows:

"Dear George Dixon: I have long desired to involve myself in your fan mail.

"I like your little woman very much. Her reactionary conduct during the Helen Hayes interview pleased me very much. I'm an old Hayes woman myself, but I still think your little woman wasn't put in her place."

MISS BALDWIN revealed she has not been up to snuff lately and I wish to say that I am very sorry to hear it.

"I have no business writing to you," she continued. "I should be working. But I'm two months behind schedule. So who cares?"

I do, Miss Baldwin. I do.

ONE OF the things which consistently burns up Representative Marcantonio of New York is to be called Mark Antony.

In the Senate poll tax filibuster, Senator Tom Connally of Texas kept referring to Marcantonio by the detested appellation. Finally Senator Jim Mead of New York, who is battling shoulder to shoulder with Marcantonio to repeal the poll tax, got up to protest.

But his tongue got all twisted, thereby reducing the august assemblage to bellylaughter. He began:

"I am solidly behind Representative Mark Antony——."

YOU WILL NOT find the above in the Congressional Record. Senator Mead had it changed.

Senator Mead, by the way, is a very energetic gesticulator. He was performing his best calisthenical oratory yesterday when a page boy, who feared he might be running dry, tried to slip a glass of water onto his desk. Mead's outflung arm caught the glass, sending it flying.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S draft board here in Washington—at which FDR had to register personally when the first call came—is headed by Jimmy Hayes, legal consultant to the Veterans' Administration. Hayes, who used to play football at Notre Dame under the late Knute Rockne writes as follows:

"Chairman James D. Hayes, of Local Board No. 9, announced today that, at a regular meeting of the board, all members voted unanimously not to go on strike for higher wages for the duration of the present conflict."

GENERALLY SPEAKING, the observation as above is correct. Still many heartless men have been loved by women. Many big-hearted fellows have been given the brush-off by sweethearts or wives. Our Horses & Women Department, despite years of study of the matter, is not yet prepared to offer any rules of behavior or system that will make it certain for a man to keep the love of a woman for an indefinite period . . . Today I received an excellent haircut. A banner day, indeed. Capable tonsorialists are getting scarcer every day. The man who gave me the haircut has been a barber 59 years. His father was a barber. So was his grandfather.

WILLS: George M. Cohan left $591,475. That is very good for an actor and producer. The theatrical record in this respect is held by Lotta Crabtree. She left about $4,000,000. However, most of this was made in real estate. David Belasco left $1,375,125. James K. Hackett left $788,910. Edwin Booth left $622,430; Tom Meighan, $594,430; Marie Dressler, $280,845; May Irwin, $102,880, and Marilyn Miller, $102,475.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—What person in the United States has the record of being the father of the most children? A—We haven't that information in our files. However, I understand a resident of Pittsburgh named H. W. Griggs was the father of 35 children. If that isn't the record, I can hardly wait to find out what is. Q—Didn't "Diamond Jim" Brady own a race horse named Yankee? A—If John E. Madden didn't own the noble animal Yankee I owe you a slogie. I believe the best horse "Diamond Jim" owned was one named Gold Heels. Q—Isn't Greer Garson the only female film star who is a college graduate? A—Miriam Hopkins is a graduate of Syracuse University. Ann Sothern has a diploma from the University of Washington. Madeleine Carroll is the possessor of a degree of Bachelor of Arts from Birmingham University, Eng.

TIPS: It is a pleasure to give a tip. The pleasure is somewhat increased when the recipient is a thing of beauty. As a cigarette girl, for instance. However, in most night clubs the cigarette girls are not permitted to keep the tips they receive. This money goes to a concessionaire. It is about time people rebelled against giving tips to hat check and cigarette girls who turn it over to somebody else. The whole tipping system needs a good going over. Why hasn't a national association of tippers been organized? A good slogan for such an organization would be, "Just a Bunch of Suckers Trying to Get an Even Break."

BIRDS: Dispatch says some bluejays in Yonkers, N. Y., bit a baby while the infant was sleeping in its carriage. Reminds me of some blackbirds near a place we lived. We had a great Dane then. These blackbirds drove this poor dog wild by swooping down and taking pecks at him. These same birds also took occasional pecks at human beings. They particularly enjoyed pecking at a man wearing a straw hat. They would follow the man down the street, taking hit-and-fly pecks at his hat.

PASSING BY: Muriel Smith. Plays the title role in the terrific musical hit, "Carmen Jones." Muriel sings that intriguing ditty titled "Love's a Baby That Grows Up Wild" . . . "Casey" Stengel. Whimsical baseball manager. Was originally called "K. C." Stengel, because he came from Kansas City. But sports scribes started spelling the nickname as it sounds and so it became "Casey."

HOLLYWOOD, May 13—The warm admiration David Wark Griffith has for Preston Sturges and his delight in "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek" will shortly result in a business association.

D. W. wrote a motion picture version of Louis Bromfield's "Up Ferguson Way," which appeared in Cosmopolitan Magazine, and through Lillian Gish's insistence gave it to Preston to read. While it's beautiful and poetic, Lillian and Sturges felt Griffith's first picture should be strongly commercial.

M. O'Driscoll

So Bromfield has been asked for added story suggestions.

Howard Hughes, who is bzacking Sturges, would be doing a great service to the motion picture audiences if D. W.'s talent is brought back. The idea now is to have some young director work with D. W., with Lillian Gish either playing a part or helping as technical adviser. Certainly the man who still has creative ideas, and who gave so much to our industry, should be active again—and soon.

IS DWIGHT TAYLOR'S face pinkish? About two years ago he used a young actor in one of his New York shows who didn't pan out so well (the actor—not the show). The other eve Taylor met the same kid at Musso Frank's, and feeling sorry for him, called him over to the table. He said he thought he could get him a job, a small role, in "The Thin Man Returns" at M-G-M and gave him a personal note to Producer Everett Riskin. CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Martha O'Driscoll, a bride of only a few months ago, is worried about the gossip she is separating from her bridegroom, Lieut.-Comdr. Richard Adams. When I checked with her she said: "We are trying hard to work everything out and, believe me, there is no break now. He is stationed in San Francisco and I have just returned from a four weeks' camp tour. Before that I spent considerable time with him."

Martha says it's difficult for a girl with a career to stay happily married, but she believes she and her husband have adjusted their difficulties.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The town believes Ann Miller and Barney Glazer, producer and writer, will wed; Kay Morley, Charles Vidor's ex-wife, is finding consolation in Actor Richard Crane's attentions; we are promised some fine acting when Rose Stradner (Mrs. Joseph Mankiewicz) is seen as Sister Maria Veronica in "Keys of the Kingdom"; Phil Silvers escorted Mrs. Frank Sinatra along with the Danny Kayes to Felix Young's "8:40 Revue"; Benny Massi, our favorite singing waiter at the Brown Derby, has welcomed his fourth child—a boy; Joseph Fields, well-known author, and Mrs. Marian Kohn will marry within 30 days. That's when her divorce from Ralph Kohn, motion picture executive, becomes final; Olivia De Havilland and Capt. John Huston were with a party of friends, including Robert Milton. Apparently there is no truth in the gossip they no longer care; Lynn Bari is back from a six weeks' tour of the hospitals, and her bridegroom, Sid Luft, was at the station to welcome her.

NEW YORK, May 13—Do you think the New Yorkers will learn about Joan Fontaine's new romance when she gets here next week? . . . With the no-travel edict in effect in England, why do so many stars on this side of the Atlantic keep insisting they're going over this spring? . . . Anything to the report that the first new automobile will be manufactured in 1945? . . . How come the Strand Theater program doesn't even list Vic Mature, but carries the names of the authors of the show he's in in big type? . . . Anything serious about the Gail Patrick-Norman Taurog duet, which is getting to be so steady? . . . Do you keep hearing rumors about shoes going off the rationing lists before long?

YOU DON'T think those Yvette-Maxie Rosenbloom dates were for anything but laughs, do you? . . . Isn't Charlie Chaplin planning to retire quietly to a N. Y. apartment when his California litigations blow over? . . . Has the S. S. Van Dine estate recently considered granting permission to an author to revive the character "Philo Vance" for sleuth fiction? . . . Is Richard Dix being set for a Broadway stage role in the fall? . . . Isn't FDR seeking a representative to go to the Vatican to overcome the displeasure there over the bombing of the monastery of Cassino?

Is it true that Ida Lupino has added a broken hand to her broken foot? . . . Do you know that the bobby-soxers now buy the glasses from which Alan Jones drinks sodas in the little stand across from CBS Playhouse No. 3—and isn't that the end? . . . Isn't the Henry Morgenthau-Marriner Eccles feud the clinker in the world-currency-stabilization plan? . . . Isn't the Hays office just a little bit bothered by the advertising for the new Irene Dunne flicker? . . . Is there any truth to the report that Franz Werfel is facing a lawsuit from the Polish refugee who claims he is the original "Jacobowsky"?

Star Shine By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, May 13—Danny Kaye. And it's not going to start by telling you that since he started making pictures they now spell comedy with a k, or in any other such clever manner.

It is going to start simply and at the beginning by telling you that he hails from Brooklyn, Jan. 18, 1913, and that his real name is Daniel Kuminsky.

Danny Kaye

His school career was oddly devoid of theatrical activity. He didn't have any big desire to be an actor.

After high school came a series of miscellaneous jobs, ranging from soda jerker to insurance investigator. Then came a series of summer camps, where he served as waiter and funny man, to amuse the guests.

People believe he rocketed to fame with a few Broadway shows and a motion picture. He had trouped for a number of years, playing with a "tab" show that not only played this country, but, also, the Philippines, China, Singapore and Japan. He was in Japan during a typhoon and saw a man on a bicycle fly past his window, still pedaling furiously.

DANNY IS six feet tall, weighs 160 pounds, has blonde hair, blue eyes and always wears silk underwear.

Later, he had toured with Sally Rand, stooged for Nick Long, Jr., and had even played the Dorchester Hotel in London without getting anywhere. It was not until he met Sylvia Fine and Max Liebman and they started writing special material for him that he began to attract attention.

His Broadway debut was made in a summer revue called "Straw Hat Revue." The show was not a hit, but he had found himself and a wife, for he married Sylvia Fine.

He works as hard in rehearsals as he does when "on." He always gives a performance and doesn't know how to slough it.

He is a good athlete, favoring golf and baseball. While he was making "Up in Arms," he would bring a baseball and two gloves with him to the studio. Between scenes he would play catch with another actor or a grip. He plays catch as if it were the World Series.

HIS FRIENDS range from Lady Mendl to Leo Durocher. Leo is his pal and they recently toured Army camps in the South, doing a show with no other assistance than a piano player.

He does not drink himself and smokes little. He does not like steak or most meats. He prefers chicken and goes for Chinese and Italian dishes. Also, sea food. He's a big eater.

Boston After Dark

BEFORE THE DEADLINE at 5, p. m. Tuesday, Mayor John Corcoran of Cambridge will file his nomination papers for the U. S. Senate . . . Gov. Saltonstall, who is the unopposed candidate (thus far) on the Republican slate, was given warning of the Cambridge mayor's intentions in an interview in the Governor's office at 9 o'clock last Monday morning.

SALTONSTALL AND CORCORAN have been friends for years . . . The Cambridge mayor felt called upon (as we get the story authentically) to tell the Governor that "prominent Democrats" had urged him to try for the nomination . . . The two exchanged some small talk, and parted with mutual assurances that, however violent a possible contest might become, they would maintain their friendship . . . The Governor's final remark was a shrewd one, according to the unimpeachable source which relayed the story of the meeting to this desk . . . "It will be all right between us no doubt, John," said Leverett. "But how about the women?"

HIS EXCELLENCY was referring to Mesdames Saltonstall and Corcoran, who—like their husbands—have been friends of long-standing . . . Mayor Corcoran must first hurdle the candidacy of John F. Fitzgerald, but friends of the Cambridge mayor were hopeful that "Honey Fitz" would withdraw from the contest . . . They pointed to statements made when John F. filed papers to the effect that the venerable former mayor of Boston was taking out papers chiefly to save the Democratic party from losing an important contest by default.

MEANTIME, A BOMBSHELL from the direction of Washington landed in the lans of G. O. P. leaders in the Bay State. Lieut.-Col. (and former Senator) Henry Cabot Lodge had been invalided home from Italy . . . With several days before the deadline for filing papers still remaining, former Sen. Lodge could easily obtain the necessary 1000 signatures which would qualify him as a candidate for the Senatorial seat he vacated in February (for military service).

SHOULD THE YOUNG ex-junior Senator from the Bay State decide to run, Governor Saltonstall would have a formidable opponent instead of a romp to victory . . . And none could be found last night to state with finality that Lodge would not be a candidate. (It is considered no more than a possibility, however).

RUBY FOO'S DEN should be open within a few weeks, and to folks of the theater-world this is the best kind of good news . . . The Den will be renovated and re-equipped, and some structural changes will be made in the building . . . Until Ruby's famous Chinese restaurant was closed, after-dark Boston was not aware of the place it filled in the town's night life . . . But the popular cuisines of the most famous dininge place of its kind in the country seems to be something that lacks a substitute . . . Meantime, Lena's, the Italian-food oasis in Massachusetts ave., seems to have caught part of the late trade which Ruby's Den had to itself.

600 Cadet Nurses Join Corps Today

Following a colorful procession of Army, Navy and civilian nurses from the State House to Boston Common, 600 cadet nurses in the 26 Greater Boston schools of nurses will be officially inducted into the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps at the Parkman Bandstand this afternoon at 4.

Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin and prominent Army and Navy officers were scheduled to take part in the exercises, acknowledging the contribution of cadet nurses to the war effort through their work in civilian and military hospitals.

This local ceremony will be one of a series of nationwide programs conducted simultaneously in tribute to the more than 96,000 members of the student nurse training organization.

'Career Angel' Good Comedy

By PEGGY DOYLE

In a season that has given us ghosties and dafties and death in the person of a lovely young girl, Wilbur first-nighters took the sudden appearance on stage of a sky-larking guardian angel strictly in stride last night.

The occasion was the opening of "Career Angel," a new comedy by Gerard Majella Murray (a Catholic priest) which Andrew Billings and Joseph Dicks are presenting in association with David Shay.

The presence on earth of his guardian angel has been brought about by the shameless generosities of benign Brother Seraphim, headmaster of a down-at-the-heels boys' orphanage somewhere in Georgia. The institute is facing foreclosure proceedings and the superior, kindly Brother Gregory, and the rigidly righteous Brother Fidelis are despairing.

But not Brother Seraphim. He and you and you and you have been listening to his guardian angel, an athletically built fellow with a healthy tan under that silvery wig who is too rugged to be aping the gambolling gossamer ghost of "Blithe Spirit." His angel has revealed to him that there is a historically valuable cache of letters in the barn, adjoining this house where Gen. Sherman almost slept, and that it might be a means of rescuing them from what looms as inevitable eviction.

The angel tips off Brother Seraphim to a sabotage plot, which is nipped in early blooming by an older orphan, a German lad whose father has been slain by the Nazis. But it is the guardian angel of the incredulous Brother Fidelis who pokes slow-motion Washington officialdom into awareness of the intrinsic worth of the yellowing love-letters. Fame and fortune come to the orphanage and Brother Seraphim's guardian angel returns to his astral plane leaving Brothers Seraphim and Gregory laughing*. . . and Fidelis tripping in bewilderment.

Whitford Kane's Brother Seraphim is a joy. It is a rich, flavorful characterization, abounding in humor and an abiding faith, and in striking contrast to Ronald Telfer's bleak, undeviating holiness. Glenn Anders, whose "Hello, Pal" in the Gertrude Lawrence-starring stage production of some seasons agone, "Skylark," became a part of the slanguage that year, is the play's gaily cavorting angel. Methinks he flirts around his gray draperies a bit too much and it did look as though that wig by Lerch really would if he didn't stop his prancing. A change of pace might give Father Murray's angel a better break.

As to Father Murray's play, it is unusually entertaining except in the middle when it becomes complicated by too many sub-plots and loses clarity. It is at its whimsical best when the baffled or believing brothers are in conference with or about Seraphim's chocolate cookie-nibbling guardian.

The orphanage lads, notably Gerald Matthews, Alvin Allen, David Kelly and Tony Miller, are believably obstreperous, thanks to Don Appell's skilled direction which earmarks the production except as indicated. Carl Kent's school office set, wherein the entire action takes place, looks realistic enough to have been borrowed . . . not built . . . for the occasion.

ANNE GWYNNE'S horrified expression and the title of Universal's latest release should be a sufficient tip to Trans-Lux regulars that "Weird Woman," due on that screen Wednesday, is a spine-tingler not to be missed.

3 Detroit Papers Now Up to 5 Cents

DETROIT, May 13 (AP)—The three large daily newspapers of Detroit announced today effective Monday, the price of the daily edition would be increased from 4 to 5 cents, and the Sunday editions would be sold for 15 cents instead of 12 cents.

Increased costs of production were cited in the announcements by all three. The Detroit Free Press, a morning newspaper, announced its increases last night; this was followed today by announcements of the Detroit News and Detroit Times, evening papers.

Revere JVA In Fats Drive

In a house-to-house "Scavenger Hunt," the "MacArthur Quaker Wing" Corps of the Junior Victory Army in Revere obtained 18 quarts of kitchen fats.

The campaign, one of the most successful of its kind, was carried out by 15 of the 111 members of the corps sponsored by Mrs. Lila O. Annis. Proceeds of the sale of the fats will be addd to the hospital security fund, she says.

Audrey Clarke

The fourth unit has been added to the corps and consists of 22 JVA recruits. A dance is now being planned.

New officers have been elected by the "Victorettes," one of the most active of JVA corps. Heading the officers is Audrey Clarke, Oakhurst st., Dorchester, as commander. The others are: Patricia Wilson, captain, and Eileen Wilson, sergeant. Helen L. Lynch is sponsor. By popular vote Eileen Wilson was chosen permanent treasurer.

Proceeds are being obtained from sale of aprons made by the members.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Sunday's Advertiser.

Fickle Fame, Patriotic Family, B. C. in Stadium

By AUSTEN LAKE

SIC GLORIA—Sample of the flimsy stuff of which fame is made came recently when Lieut.-Col. Richard Cresson Harlow, old professor of swineskinology, paid a surprise and unpublicized visit to Harvard. Homesick for the familiar smells and sights of the college, he dropped into the Athletic Building just as a come-lately crop of scholars were exiting. Briefly he chatted with F. W. Peabody, ex-hockey manager. As he turned away some of the students asked, "Who's that?" Somewhat aghast Peabody replied, "Why, that's Dick Harlow." Instead of the awed recognition Peabody expected, the kids inquired, "Yeh, who's he?"

MAGNIFICENT McLAUGHRY'S—Pater Tuss McLaughry is a major of Marines, now athletic officer to some 10,000 "boots" at Parris Island. Son John, the former rugged fullback at Brown, is a captain of Marine ground troops currently down with malaria in a New Guinea hospital. Son Bob is a pilot in the Marine airforce. Mother McLaughry is working nights at the Pratt & Whitney Plane Co. of Hartford. This makes a 100 per cent family front.

Tuss McLaughry

Until John, as a company commander, helped take Bougainville from the Japs, he hadn't seen his brother for several years. Part of his post-battle job was to build an airfield. When the landing strips were completed and the first contingent of fliers arrived, Bob was among them. The boys had a 15 minute reunion.

B. C.-Harvard Tilt

ANOTHER B. C.-HARVARD game?—Though neither Boston College nor Harvard have committed themselves, there are rosy prospects that the football relations so happily resumed last autumn will be continued again this year. Harvard definitely will field an informal team. B. C. will decide when it surveys the incoming June class depending on the number of civilian students available. If there are enough lads of physical standard, football will go on. Which, in this writer's opinion, would mean another B. C.-H. game with another overflow crowd. For Harvard's football policy, as outlined by the Athletic Committee in February, 1943, is "to continue a modified program of varsity competition to conform with wartime transportation requirements, principally with nearby colleges." EPHEMERAL YOUTH—Word from England, where Joe Louis, is exhibiting his fistic magic to U. S. troops, is that the Brown Bomber seems to have lost much of his muscular rubber and electric reflex. Opinion is that he has declined sharply from his old form. Which recalls the sage remark of "Doc" Earl Painter, the New York Yankees' trainer, during the final years of Babe Ruth's athletic slump.

A pedantic man, yet a stickler for serious fact, Painter said; "We humans begin to die from birth. As each muscle cell burns out through years of action, tiny bits of scar tissue form, so that the body gradually becomes a mass of such minute scars which hamper the free action of youth. And by long use the veins and arteries of the legs shrink so that the blood supply dwindles and no longer feeds the muscles properly. Fatigue increases and endurance fades. Which is what happens to all athletes past the age of 28."

To physicians who may read this I point that the quotes are "Doc's," since I learned long ago, after many hollers by mail from practitioners, not to advance any medical opinion of my own.

LITTLE AND LEAHY—Frank Leahy, whose coaching during B.C.'s Bowl days is legendary, arrives this week at Princeton to take his indoctrination as a Navy officer . . . Lou Little, maestro of Columbia football, has regained 85 per cent of his vocal chords after being down to his last whisper following a throat operation, caused, he suspects, by bursting a blood vessel from excessive benchyelling. Lou says he only yelled when his teams were behind, which he confesses sadly, was most of the time.

WINDOW DRESSING — The Boston Yankees, heir to the professional headaches of George Marshall et als, have hired a store front on the ground floor of the Statler Building where the passing lobby crowds are thickest. Object is to set up advertising displays to tub-thump the pre-autumnal sale of season tickets and to duplicate, as far as possible, the Redskins' Washington success, where Marshall already has $90,000 in his till and anticipates a 17,000 season ticket sale before his opening game.

GOWDY'S GALAXY — Sometimes called "The Color Sergeant" and sometimes "Old Goldenrod," Major Hank Gowdy, ex-Braves and Reds coach, is directing the play of six ball teams at Fort Benning, Ga. With a few exceptions the teams are composed of ex-professionals, one of them managed by our old Somerville friend, Francis "Shanty" Hogan.

CHOP SUEY AND SLUM GULLION—When a Judge Cravath recently fined Mrs. James Roosevelt $10 for excessive speeding at Laguna Beach, Cal., his identity was concealed in the anonimity of a news note. The Judge is none other than old "Gavvy" Cravath, the Phillies home run slugger during the years of 1912-21. Tough old Gavvy, who calls himself a "hard-boiled Republican" refused political pressure to take Mrs. J. R.'s gas card away . . .

WITH A PROMOTIONAL EYE to post-war real estate boom and the revival of Florida as the training camp Mecca, St. Petersburg has appropriated a large fund for building a modern ball park on the site where the Braves used to train. The plant, says a prospectus, will be steel and concrete instead of the old henyard of wood and chicken wire that the Braves knew.

Braves Hit Stride; Player Trade Seen

By JOE CASHMAN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 13—Stuart Hofferth, the big, good-looking catcher from Indianapolis, was to make his bow behind the bat for the Braves in the final of the four-game series with the Pirates this afternoon.

Reporting late, he's done his training handling the pitchers in batting practice and reports he's ready to go.

Coleman has two reasons for calling on Stu at this time.

He wants to get an under-fire line on this rookie who was voted the most valuable player in the American Association last year. He also wants to find out if the newcomer is satisfactory as a battery mate to Charlie "Red" Barrett, who was expected to start on the hill this p. m.

AT ODDS WITH CATCHERS

Barrett, as you may or may not know, has been occasionally at odds with Phil Masi and Clyde Kluttz since he joined the club at the start of last season.

The red-head nearly came to blows with Kluttz in arguments over what he should pitch in games in New York and Boston last season.

Casey Stengel then used Masi when he pitched Charlie, but that combination didn't click too smoothly either. Nor did the pitcher seem any more pleased when Hugh Poland was sent out to receive him.

Only last Wednesday night here, when the Pirates were scoring three runs off Barrett in the eighth inning, Kluttz bawled out Charlie for throwing fast balls.

Clyde wanted curves. Red insisted that the fast ball was his best pitch and insisted on throwing it.

It seems impossible to cure "Red" of the habit of questioning his catcher's judgment and the veteran Tribal receivers also claim he crosses them up occasionally, throwing a pitch other than the one called for and expected by the man back of the pan.

If Barrett should get along O. K. with big Hofferth, it might increase the Californian's effectiveness as a hurler.

Tall and raw-boned, Hofferth should be a fine target for a pitcher to shoot at. And from the way he hits in practice, he shapes up as a real threat at the bat.

If he has any weakness, it may be his arm. His gun, while it appears adequate hasn't been impressive.

American Association managers and players, however, say he's a standout in every department and predict he'll become a star big league mitt and mask man.

If the Braves make a trade, which they are trying to do, the chances are they'll have to give up one of their three catchers. Whether it will be Hofferth, Klutz or Masi will depend on what Stu shows in this trial.

Except for pitchers, which the warriors can't afford to let go, rivals are interested only in Braves catchers.

It may be different, though, if our heroes maintain the pace they've hit since embarking on this western invasion.

Thirty hits and 17 runs they've made in taking two in a row from the Pirates after dropping the night-time opener.

Rapping out 18 safeties for their highest total of the year in taking the Thursday tilt, 7-2, they came back with their highest run total of the campaign in the Friday fray which they captured, 10-3, back of Nate Andrews.

Nate spotted the Pirates a two-run lead in the opening stanza, but the Tribe came back to shell the left-handed preacher Roe from the peak under a four-run barrage in the third and continue the assault against southpaw Art Cuccurullo in the seventh.

Gansett Records to Go On Last Day of Meeting

By JACK CONWAY

THE $5000 ADDED Blackstone Handicap, a six furlong event, will be the feature as the Narragansett Park meeting comes to a close this afternoon . . . I look for a new 1944 betting mark for New England to be established . . . My guess is that today's handle will go roaring past the $1,500,000 mark.

The Saturday card, as usual, will consist of nine races . . . The $1169.20 daily double of Ariel Beam and Windmill will cause the noble breed of bettors to keep looking for long shots.

Russ Murray

The racing picture will shift to Suffolk Downs on Monday when a 60-day meeting will get under way . . . There will be a 2:30 p. m. post time at the East Boston track . . . With an abundance of street car service direct to the track and with the parking lots open to automobiles, the opening day crowd at Suffolk Downs should be between 15,000 and 18,000 while the mutuel handle should trip merrily up around the $900,000 mark . . . The opening day crowd at Suffolk Downs a year ago was 13,000 while the handle was $376,000 . . . The parking lots were closed other than to horsemen, officials and members of the working press.

Charles F. Adams, director of racing at Suffolk Downs, told me he believes the daily average mutuel handle will be $700,000 . . . One can hoist this daily average by $100,000 and he may still be low . . . Million dollar betting days are common at New England tracks.

Monday will be a double racing opening in Massachusetts as Russ Murray's Raynham dog track will get under way on Monday night with a ten race card . . . The greyhounds have shown top form in their schoolings at the Raynham track, and some stirring competition is expected . . . The attendance and mutuel handle should also establish new marks.

Approve Aid to Vets

RUSS MURRAY, acting on impulses from his heart as well as from his brain, made the most popular move of any race track in the country when he agreed to give veterans of the war preference in the matter of jobs. Russ has received hundreds of applications for jobs from veterans, while he has received letters from people in all parts of New England praising his stand.

Jeremiah J. Callahan of No. 290 Lake st., Waltham, wrote to Murray as follows:

"I just finished reading the fine column Jack Conway wrote about you. He surely explained everything well and in detail. I too will never forget coming down the gangplank off of the America at Commonwealth Pier when I returned from the last war.

"I feel for the boys now in service, many of whom have gone overseas. Having the best wishes of these boys at heart, I only wish I were in a position to help in some little way when they return. I am more than pleased that Jack Conway brought out your feelings toward the veterans and the good you are doing. I hope your health will hold out for a good many years to come.

"By your kind acts and thoughts others may follow your example and so the boys returning from this war will get a better break than we did. Loads of luck to you. I am also a disabled veteran. I was first sergeant in Company D, 101st Infantry, 26th Division."

There was also a letter from a mutuel clerk who had a sponsor for a job:

"I wish you would give my job to a disabled veteran," read the letter. "The boys who have been injured in the war are entitled to any race track jobs that are available."

Marines to Raise Colors

A DETACHMENT of Marines will raise the colors just as the horses come out on the track for the first race on Monday at Suffolk Downs . . . The Marines will march out on the runway leading from the paddock. First in line will be the Marine carrying the flag. He will be followed by two Marines who will have rifles, while two Marines will bring up the rear. The detachment of Marines will march to the infield, where the colors will be raised.

Armstrong Faces Test

Hammering Henry Armstrong is frank in admitting he will have to put up the best bout of his local career if he is to win from Ralph Zanelli of Providence in their 10-round tussle at the Garden on Tuesday night under the direction of the Goodwin A. C.

"I didn't have much of a margin on Zanelli in our last bout," said the former world's triple champion after a hard workout at Harry Kelley's Gym. "Zanelli was an improved fighter over the form he showed in our first match. I realize he was also upset over the fact he had to take off weight on the day of the show.

"Zanelli expects to make 145 by Tuesday without any trouble. I hope he has all of his strength and is at his best when he enters the ring. I do not want Zanelli to be in a position to offer an alibi when he is defeated.

"I'll win from Zanelli again. I may have to fight harder to accomplish this result, but I'll do so.

"I am boxing as fast as ever, while I am getting much power into my punches. Zanelli cannot think as fast as I can when the chips are down.

"I shall leave the ring duration welterweight champion of the world. They can then bring on 'Red' Cochrane, world's champion, for a bout for a service charity."

Gar Wood Out Of Hospital

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., May 13 (AP)—Gar Wood, internationally known speedboat champion, who was struck by lightning on April 28 as he walked away from his private plane, was resting at his home here today after being released from a hospital yesterday.

Wood, still under treatment for shock and injuries, said today that his doctor had warned him not to do anything for at least another week "but I'm itching to get started again."

Asked whether he intends to continue racing his famous craft, Wood said "this is no time to be thinking about racing boats. There's much more important work to do."

Catholic Loop Ace on Mound

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Can history repeat itself? It's a question that has coach Jimmy Jordan and his entire St. Mary's High School baseball squad on edge right now as they prepare to meet the invasion of St. Patrick's nine of Watertown at the Brookline ave. playground tomorrow afternoon in one of the features of the Sunday Catholic League competition.

It's exactly a year to the date that Johnnie Trahon pitched his way into the schoolboy hall of fame with a no-hitter against this same St. Patrick's outfit. And it's Trahon's turn to take to the mound in this game!

Trahon's a sophomore now and one of the very good reasons why St. Mary's of Brookline has chalked up the enviable record of 5-1 in league play as the teams advance into the second half of the Southern Division schedule. The 15-year-old right-hander has chalked up two victories in as many starts, his best effort being a 4-hitter, and he's taken a crack at a relief role.

Trahon is one of two veteran flingers who are carrying St. Mary's through its 10-game circuit schedule. Paul Powers, another right-hander, has scored the other three triumphs, just missing a no-hitter in the opening game against St. Columbkille's when a single bingle blocked the the way. Since that tilt, Powers has stopped St. Charles of Waltham and repeated his St. Columbkille's victory.

Tigers Suspend Grid Program

PRINCETON, N. J., May 13 (AP)—Princeton University, which has already given up several intercollegiate sports, has abandoned a formal football schedule in favor of intramural competition.

Harold W. Dodds, president of the university, said last night the step was made necessary by "the limited number of players who would be available and because of the wartime pressure of regular college duties on instructional staffs and undergraduates."

The president further explained that "the severity of wartime schedules does not afford adequate time for training, which is more than ever essential when the extreme youth and physical qualities of the material are taken into account." Princeton suspended football schedules in 1917.

George Viz, 119, Lowell, knocked out Johnny Walsh, 119, Boston, 2.

WORCESTER—Bill Tordiglione, 143, Boston, scored a technical kayo over Vic Belander, 147, Utica, N. Y., 3. Ernie Forte, 149, Providence, kayoed Ed Jensen, 155, Quincy, 2. Jim Russo, 175, West Warwick, R. I., kayoed Bob Hall, 172½, Arlington, 1.

Printers' Strike Stops Boxing Match

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 13 (AP)—A boxing match scheduled for Tuesday night was postponed today because Wilkes-Barre newspapers have suspended publication temporarily in a printers' work stoppage.

Matchmaker Marty Fuller said the bout between heavyweights Joe Baksi, Kulpmont, Pa., and Pvt. Buddy Knox, Dayton, O., will be rescheduled after the newspapers resume publication.

The printers ceased work last Monday in a dispute over a collective bargaining contract.

Telephone operators at the offices of the Times-Leader Evening News and the Record, both published by the Wilkes-Barre Publishing Co., said they were receiving hundreds of calls from residents asking about war news.

B. C. Athletes Win 2 Events

BRIGGS FIELD, Cambridge, May 13—Boston College's two representatives in the New England track and field championships turned in triumphs here this afternoon as one track record was blasted from the books in the early events.

Herb McKenley, outdistancing his field in the 440-run by 10 yards, chopped a full second off the mark established by Fran Hines, Holy Cross, in 1941, but he failed to dent the meet record of Dick Gill, B. C., in 1937. Carl Palmieri, Tufts, took second place ahead of Ed Burns, M. I. T., with Dave Bailey, M. I. T., in fourth.

In the 100-yard dash, Boston College's Ralph had everything his own way as he wound up the Eagles' entry list for the day with twin victories.

Hugo Norige, Worcester Poly, turned in a double triumph in the field events, tossing the discus for a winning distance of 124 feet 4½ inches, and the 16-pound shot-put for a top heave of 43 feet 8½ inches. Neither threatened the meet records.

Duncan Blanchard, Tufts, won the mile event in 4:31.

PRINCETON DROPS GRID SCHEDULE

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—The abandonment of Princeton University's formal football schedule in favor of intra-mural competition was announced last night by President Harold W. Dodds.

"If any football other than intramural is played," Dodds said, "it will be informal in nature and will be limited to a few contests with nearby institutions."

Lanier of Cards Top Hurler of Both Leagues

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Max Lanier, the "hard luck guy" of the 1943 World Series, today ranks as the top pitcher of the major leagues with a five-game winning streak for the front running St. Louis Cardinals.

Although Hank Borowy of the Yankees also is undefeated, the Cards' chunky southpaw from Denton, N. C., has won one more game than the New York ace and rates the top spot by allowing only six runs and 30 hits in 45 innings. His latest effort was a 7-2 decision last night over his old "cousins" from Brooklyn whom he has stopped 16 times in 23 tries during his career.

Things were different for Lanier last fall when his wild pitch "hid" from catcher Walker Cooper in plain sight of 68,000 Yankee Stadium fans to cost him the opening series game. He also failed to win his second series start.

After blanking Pittsburgh on opening day, 2-0, the Carolina curver twice topped Chicago and whipped Cincinnati before last night's seven-hitter against the Dodgers.

Night ball continued to pull out the crowds, with 47,501 paying to see the three after dark engagements to an aggregate of 13,957 for five day-time frays.

The St. Louis Brownies lashed out with 15 hits, scoring five times to flatten Early Wynn in the first inning, stopping Washington, 6-4, behind Bob Muncrief. By the night victory, Luke Sewell's persistent crew went back into first place in the American, because the Yankees were beaten by Detroit's Hal Newhouser, 10-4, Pinky Higgins helped Hal become the first left-hander to trim the champs this season by belting a homer and two singles to drive in five runs.

Bobo Newsom was at his best before a "first night" audience of 19,708 at Philadelphia and rationed Chicago to five hits in hurling the A's to a 4-2 verdict.

Boston did its part in boosting the day's big league hit total to 170 by collecting 14 behind Tex Hughson in a 10-3 slaughter of Cleveland.

Mel Ott benched Ducky Medwick despite his .366 average and the New York Giants squeezed past Cincinnati 5-3 using three pitchers.

Hollywood Turf Club Plans Charity Meet

LOS ANGELES, May 13 (AP)—Directors of the Hollywood Turf Club have decided on 15 days of racing for charity and war activities in connection with the 55-day program that starts Aug. 25 at Hollywood Park.

The management said it hoped to raise $1,000,000.

And after announcing that he would use Truet (Bloper Ball) Sewell, his 21-victory ace on the hill, Oncle Fritz shifted at the last minute to Little Xavier Rescigno.

FIRST INNING

BRAVES—Holmes singled. Macon fouled to Lopez. Nieman singled, and when Colman fumbled the ball and threw wild past second, Holmes scored and Nieman went to third. Workman fouled to Elliott. Hofferth singled, scoring Nieman. Ryan singled. Phillips tripled, scoring Hofferth and Ryan. Gee replaced Rescigno on the mound for the Pirates. Gadu singled, scoring Phillips. C. Barrett flied to J. Barrett. FIVE RUNS.

PIRATES—J. Barrett fouled to Hofferth. Russell flied to Holmes. Colman singled. Elliott forced Colman, Gladu to Ryan. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

BRAVES—Rubeling threw out Holmes. At this point time has been called because of rain.

Border Colleges Plan Grid Campaign

EL PASO, Tex., May 13 (AP)—Three border conference colleges—New Mexico, Texas Tech and West Texas State—are preparing to field teams in this fall's gridiron campaign. And Arizona State wants to compete if Navy permission is granted.

That picture of football prospects in the sagebrush country emerged from the annual spring meeting of border conference representatives last night. There was no indication of a resumption by the other five member schools.

Sports Scribe Heads Semi-Pro League

WICHITA, Kan., May 13 (INS)—Smith Barrier, sports editor of the Greensboro (N. C.) News, was named 1944 North Caroling commissioner of semi-professional baseball today.

Two Cubs' Pitchers Wait Service Call

CHICAGO, May 13 (INS)—Two Chicago Cub pitchers, Hank Wyse and Bill Fleming, were headed for the military services today. Wyse and Fleming passed preinduction physical examinations yesterday, but date of their entry was not set.

Two other Cub players, Ed Sauer and Bill Schuster, also took their examinations, with Sauer being classified 4-F and Schuster being ordered back for a further check. The former is an outfielder and the latter an infielder.

Alsab Makes Debut At Belmont Park

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Alsab, one of the leading money-winners of all time with $349,815, makes his 1944 racing rebut at Belmont Park today. The 5-year-old son of Good Goods, who has been away from the races since last fall, was entered in the six-furlong Voters Handicap.

Devil Diver winner of the 1942 Kentucky Derby, was favored to win the $10,000 Metropolitan Handicap, feature race on the card.

Indians' Pitcher Passes Examination

CLEVELAND, May 13 (AP)—Allie Reynolds, 27, of Oklahoma City, Okla., right-handed pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, today passed his pre-induction physical examination at the Cleveland induction center and was accepted by the Navy.

Russ Lyon, rookie Tribe catcher from East Point, Ga., was rejected for military service. Both players will rejoin the Indians in New York.

A's Drop Southpaw

PHILADELPHIA, May 13 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics announced the outright release of Talmadge Abernathy, only left-handed pitcher on its player list to Memphis of the Southern Association.

Owens of Dodgers Reclassified 1-A

ST. LOUIS, May 13 (AP)—Mickey Owen, catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, disclosed today he had been re-classified 1A in the draft but said he had not yet received notice to report for pre-induction physical examination.

Owen had an agricultural deferment during the winter because of his work on his farm near Springfield, Mo.

Handley Deferred

PITTSBURGH, May 13 (AP)—Lee Handley, 28, Pittsburgh Pirate second baseman examined for military service, was given a 90-day deferment because of a knee injury suffered last season.

Al Blozis Takes Fling at Baseball

FT. BRAGG, N. C., May 13 (AP)—He waited until he got in the Army, but now Pvt. Al Blozis, holder of several world shotput records and former star football player at Georgetown University, is taking a fling at another sport—baseball.

In civilian life, Blozis didn't have time for baseball because of his track exploits during the summer months. But after his arrival here, he turned out for the 100th Division baseball team, and showed tremendous power at the plate.

Yankee Spirit—Amidst bursting shell and death, the American doughboys are still "having fun." One mile back from the Anzio front are pictured the gallant lads of Uncle Sam playing a racing game, and for big dough. The irony of the whole situation is the sign posted above the "racing secretary."

Braves Score Five in First

By JOE CASHMAN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 13—Manager Bob Coleman was forced to break up a winning combination in the fourth and final game of the series with the Pirates this afternoon when "Whitey" Weitelman had to go under the knife for the third time for removal of cysts from around his eyes.

The shortstop, who had just begun to hit and knocked in four runs yesterday with two doubles, couldn't open one of his eyes last night. He tried to arrange for the operation this morning, hoping to play this p. m., but the doctors couldn't take care of him until 2:30.

So Damon Phillips moved from third to short and Frenchy Gladu returned to third base as Charlie "Red" Barrett went to the mound and Stu Hofferth made his tribal debut back of the bat.

Wietelmann's eye trouble started while the Warriors were in training at Choate School. He had three cysts cut out at that time. A new bunch of growths cropped up during an early-season game in Boston. That time "Whitey" had them removed in the morning and played that afternoon.

The Pirates lineup was also scrambled as Frankie Frisch did for an even break in the engagement.

Vince DiMaggio was benched, with Frank Colman going to right, Johnny Barrett moving to
